WMNF logging plan called threat to region's woods-based businesses

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A plan by the U.S. Forest Service to further reduce timber harvests in the White Mountain National Forest could have a devastating impact on western Maine and eastern New Hampshire wood mills, according to representatives of the local woods-products industry.

"And it's not just loggers and people in the mills, but also people at places like Sunday River -- who are going to feel the pressure when woods workers are laid off and are going to be competing for scarce local jobs," said Roger Wheeler of Chapman & Wheeler Logging of Bethel.

Reggie Gilbert of Bearpaw Lumber Corp. said the cutting limits "could close us down in this region." It will also, he warned, lead to the further degradation of private lands, by putting more pressure on their timber stands.

The situation in this region, he said, is becoming "dangerously similar to what we saw in the Pacific Northwest."

Two-thirds less timber

The cause for alarm is the latest Forest Service harvesting plan, which calls for selling off only 9.6 million board feet next year. That figure is roughly one-third of the current year's figure of 29 MMBF.

Leon Favreau, president of Bethel Furniture Stock in West Bethel and of the National Multiple Use Association, termed the proposed harvesting level for fiscal year 1995 "just absurd."

During the 1980s, Favreau noted, timber harvests averaged 38 MMBF annually, and the WMNF is rated as having a sustainable yield of 70 MMBF annually.

He characterized the latest cut-back as yet another step toward en-

Skiway to take a swing at golf

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Officials at Sunday River Ski Resort are eyeing land near Jordan Bowl as the possible setting for the skiway's long-rumored golf course.

The final site and course architect are yet to be selected, according to company spokesman Skip King, but the skiway hopes to begin work on the course within two to three years.

It will probably be built, he said, on the western side of Merrill Hill in Newry.

Having an 18-hole, championship-level course "would help round out Sunday River as a four-season resort," King said.

He noted that since the construction of the Summit Hotel and Conference Center, the resort's off-season business has grown steadily -- from 150 conference room nights last year to an anticipated 10,000 nights next year.

The prospect of a second major course in the area was greeted enthusiastically by Allen Connors, general manager for marketing at the Bethel Inn and Country Club.

"It would be fantastic," Connors said. "We'd love to be able to make Bethel Maine's golf destination."

"Variety is the key in attracting golfers," he said. "A course at Sunday River would allow us to improve our extended-stay packages."

"What black flies?"

A similar golf course at Sugarloaf/USA, Sunday River's in-state rival, has helped establish the Carrabassett Valley resort as a four-season destination.

The Sugarloaf course, built in the early 1980s, has had a well-publicized history of black-fly problems, but King expressed confidence Sunday River's proposed course would suffer from no such afflictions.

"Black flies?" he said. "What black flies? I'm sure any quantitative sampling would demonstrate conclusively that there are far more black flies at Sugarloaf than at Sunday River."

(A Sugarloaf spokesman notes that improving drainage, clearing woods along the fairways, and encouraging bats and swallows have greatly reduced that course's problem with black flies).

GOING DOWNHILL FAST--Dave Lamb of Hampstead, N.H., attacks some of the 900 vertical feet in the cross-country competition at last weekend's River Rage Mountain Bike Festival. Lamb, one of more than 300 weekend competitors, took third place in the men's pro/expert category. The race weekend, sponsored by NORBA (National Off Road Bicycle Association) also attracted hundreds of spectators. Top finishers are listed on page 11.

G'wood tax hikes protested

New bills for some residents have more than doubled

By WENDY HANSCOM

The bills have gone out and now the complaints are coming in.

Three Greenwood residents turned out at last week's selectmen's meeting to complain about their tax bills, and another five wrote to express their displeasure.

Some taxpayers found their bills well over 100 percent higher than last year -- due to revaluation, higher school assessment and loss of some town valuation.

The town's mill rate has risen from 13.8 to 16.65.

Selectmen are blaming the increase on an increase in their SAD44 FY '95 assessment.

The town's fiscal year is different from the district's, but Greenwood's assessment has gone from $480,728 to $543,356.

The new mill rate is a 2.85 increase. Last year a homeowner with $75,000 of assessed value would have paid about $1,035 in property tax. At this year's mill rate, the same homeowner would be taxed approximately $1,249.

The town also recently completed a revaluation. Homeowners whose valuation went up got hit extra hard this year.

The town also lost $1 million in commercial valuation, according to selectmen.

Several businesses in town were overvalued, selectman Marie Bartlett said, and their assessment has been decreased, which amounts to about a $1 million loss.

"Our mill rate would have gone to 16 even without the revaluation," Bartlett said last week. "It's costing us a lot more this year to pay SAD44. The purpose of the

Bethel nixes train-station ownership

And voters approve Airport Industrial Park site for town garage

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Apparently believing there's no such thing as a free train station, Bethel voters have replied, "Thanks, but no thanks," to the idea of the town owning the Bethel Station depot.

More than 200 voters turned out for a special Town Meeting Monday, where they rejected the train station offer, but gave their stamp of approval (or at least grudging acceptance) to the decision to locate the new town garage at the Airport

Industrial Park.

The train station vote is unlikely to have any significant impact on the $25-million Bethel Station Project.

The station will still be built with federal funds (assuming a pending grant application is approved), only now it will be the state, rather than the town, which takes title to the property and leases it back to the developers.

"We're just as happy to have the state own it as the town," developer

Les Otten told the meeting Monday, "but there will be several hundred thousand dollars invested in the station, and at some point it might be useful to have the town own it."

But other speakers appeared convinced that, one way or another, owning the station would wind up costing the town money. And still others objected to the whole idea of the government -- rather than the developers -- footing the bill for the facility.

And once again, objection was raised to the elimination of log loading at the station siding (although the vote turning down ownership of the station effectively removed any control the town might have had over the site -- and the elimination of in-town freight handling now seems assured.)

And for their part, the developers presented no compelling advantages to the town in owning the station.

After 45 minutes of discussion the

Rebel booters kick off season with high hopes

By WENDY HANSCOM

"We're better than a year ago and we're the best we've been in quite a while," said Telstar High School soccer coach Bob Remington, who is predicting another winning season of Rebel soccer.

The team has most of its key players back and that experience combined with enthusiastic younger players will probably put the Rebels into the post-season playoffs again this year, the coach said.

Last year the team went 8-2-2, and ranked fifth in Western Maine State Class C. The Rebels came in second behind Carrabec in the Mountain Valley Conference. The Cobras also took Telstar out of post-season action in the quarter-finals.

The Rebels have looked good in the pre-season.

Telstar beat Fryeburg Academy 3-0 last week. Friday the Rebels scrimmaged in a grueling tourney at Mountain Valley. Telstar played seven, 25-minute games back-to-back in 80 degree, humid conditions, Remington said.

The boys went 4-1-2, a good showing, he said, considering five or six JV players were mixed in to give the varsity squad some relief. The team scored a total of nine goals in the tourney.

Experience will be on the Rebel's side this season, even though the team lost five players to graduation. Sean Gilson, Chris Howe, Josh Fogg, Nate Harvey and Rob Green-well joined the alumni ranks in June.

But there's several returning let-termin on this season's 17-man squad.

THANKS FOR THE ROADSIDE HELP

To the Editor:

We moved to Maine in December 1993 from California. Everyone we have come in contact with have been extremely nice to us. On Saturday morning, Aug. 20, (my birthday) we were on the way to a company party when our car broke down on the East Bethel/Locke Mills Road. I want to take this time to say "Thanks" to all the residents of the road, four miles from Route 26 and our friends that were so kind to us. First to the gentleman on his tractor who offered the use of his phone and to his wife who gave me good directions, and to their neighbor across the road who came over to ask if we needed assistance. Another nice gentleman in a pickup truck stopped and went down the road and told Paul Hebert about our dilemma. Our biggest thanks goes to Paul and family. He pulled our car to his home. Eric Paul was kind enough to come out to pick us up, but missed us at Hebert's house, so Mr. Hebert drove us to our party at Christopher Lake. Thanks to Aron Paul for the wild ride down to Littlefield Beach, and to Dorothy Swan for the ride back to our home in Andover. Luckily it was a beautiful day on Saturday and due to the thoughtfulness of all of the above my birthday was a wonderful day. Thanks again.

DESIGN AN ARTY DESIGN

To the Editor:

The Mahosuc Arts Council is looking for a new design to be used for the Seventh Annual Hike/Bike/Run tee shirt. The council would like to invite interested artists to collaborate with the council by submitting designs to the Mahosuc Office by Sept. 9.

The traditional Hike/Walk/Run has changed its title to the Great Mahosuc Arts Hike/Bike/Run and added a new component this year -- a competitive mountain bike race over 10 miles of posted trails.

This event is an annual fundraising event for Mahosuc Arts and will take place on Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Sunday River Ski Resort.

The council is interested in a design that could incorporate the many aspects of the arts, as well as the Hike/Bike/Run component. The designer of the design chosen will receive two complimentary shirts and her/his signature will be printed on the shirts. The design does not have to be camera ready and can be screen printed with a maximum four-color process.

For more information, please call the Mahosuc Arts office at 824-3575. The office is located in Bingham Hall at Gould Academy

From the Bethel Police log:
Locke Mills man hurt in truck accident;
car crashes into restaurant

A Locke Mills man was seriously injured Sunday, Aug. 28, when the 1989 Ford truck he was driving east on the East Bethel Road left the roadway on the right side hitting two mail boxes. Ken Mason, 37, of Locke Mills, then swerved across the left lane, according to the police report, left the pavement again and hit a pine tree, which snapped and landed on the front of the truck. Mason was transported to Stephen's Memorial Hospital for treatment of a serious spinal column injury. The cause of the accident is still under investigation. State Police were called in to reconstruct the accident.

Tuesday morning, Aug. 30, Nicole Brooks, 20, of Bethel, ran her vehicle into the side of Andy's Kitchen in West Bethel. Brooks was attempting to back out of her parking spot, police said, but the car was in first gear instead of reverse and "jumped forward" and hit the building. The exterior and interior walls of the restaurant were cracked and pushed in about two inches. Police Sgt. Darren Tripp estimated damage in the high four figures.

Police also had two dog complaints last week. On Aug. 24, a Bethel woman called from the Annis Road to report that a neighbor's dog had killed nine turkeys. On Aug. 23, a Northwest Bethel Road farm owner reported that a dog was bothering her sheep and acting aggressively -- holding the landowner at bay. By the time police arrived the dog was under control. The animal was transported to a Norway animal shelter.

In other police news last week, there were three burglaries reported. On Aug. 22, a Bryant Pond man reported the theft of fishing poles, a generator and a radio valued together at about $680 from a Perry Road residence.

On Aug. 24, a Route 26 woman reported the theft of a flashlight, quilt and jacket from her home. The loss was estimated at $420.

On Aug. 5, a Java House employee reported that the coffee shop had been broken into and $64 was missing.

Police also talked to an over-zealous golfer last week. Crescent Park School principal David Murphy reported that golf balls were sailing over the fence between the school and Bethel Park Apartments. He was worried the building would be damaged, the report said. Police spoke with a man at BPA, who admitted to hitting the balls, the report said, but also said he didn't think they were traveling as far as the school. No damage to the school was reported.

Police also made two arrests last week.

On Aug. 26, Travis York, 18, of Bethel was arrested on a probation violation.

On Aug. 23, Michael L. Heikinen, 24, of North Waterford was arrested and charged with operating without a license and exceeding the speed limit by 30 miles per hour (94 mph in a 50 mph zone).

Bethel Conservation Commission

Toxic Household Rug and Upholstery Cleaners -- keep them out of our ground water, streams, and rivers.

Rug and upholstery cleaning products can contain naphthalene, perchloroethylene, oxalic acid, and diethylene glycol.

Try a less toxic alternative. Clean immediately with soda water or baking soda paste, then vacuum.

If a more toxic product must be used, use as little as possible and avoid leftovers by buying no more than needed.

Environmentalists' goal of "closing down the White Mountain National Forest" to timber harvesting.

But Wayne Millen, an assistant district ranger in the local Evans Notch District, WMNF, said that federal budget cuts, not environmentalist pressure, have led to most recent cutbacks.

The Forest Service must plan each harvest, he said, then mark the trees, administer the sale of the timber and in some cases construct roads and bridges to make the sale site accessible.

That all costs money, he said, and the Forest Service has been hit hard by cutbacks targeted at reducing the federal deficit.

A further reason for the budget slashing in the eastern part of the country, he noted, was that funds were being shifted to the West, to help offset the economic dislocation caused by severe harvesting reductions in that region.

Decreased supply = higher prices

Favreau said approximately one-third of the wood used at Bethel Furniture Stock comes from the nearby national forest. Other mills in Maine rely on public lands for as much as three-quarters of their wood supply, he said.

The effect of the cutbacks, he predicted, would be higher raw-material prices and lower profit margins.

Roy Newton, owner of Newton & Tebbets in West Bethel agreed. Newton said he was unsure how much of his wood came from the national forest, "but anytime you cut into the supply the price will go up," he said.

Wheeler predicted the price increases would take a while to appear, since a considerable volume of WMNF timber is already "in the pipeline."

'We've been involved politically with this process for more than 20 years, and the more we compromise the less we get.'

ROGER WHEELER
Chapman & Wheeler

But over the long term, he said, the cutback would not only raise prices, but also threaten the existence of smaller logging operations -- which rely on the public lands for a cushion when timber from private or paper company land is not available.

Favreau said he was so angered by the "ridiculous" harvesting figures, that at a recent meeting with WMNF officials, "I blew my stack and walked out."

Wheeler attended the same meeting and stayed to the end, but he sympathized with Favreau.

"I can understand his frustration," Wheeler said. "We've been involved politically with this process for more than 20 years and the more we compromise the less we get."

Wheeler said he had reached the point where he was considering more direct action.

"Civil disobedience is not a bad idea -- it might wake some people up," he said.

idea -- it might wake some people up," he said.

New Hampshire hit hardest

The vast majority of the wood harvested in the WMNF comes from New Hampshire rather than Maine, and that state's Timberland Owners Association has issued its own warning about the timber sale cutbacks.

"This decrease will have devastating consequences for the rural economy of northern New Hampshire and Maine," said Charles Niebling, executive director of the N.H.T.O.A., the state's forestry trade association.

"The potential loss of 20 MMBF to our forest industry will translate into a loss of some $18 to 20 million in income to working people and communities in New Hampshire and Maine, $3 million in taxes and timber revenues to the federal treasury, and the potential displacement of some 375 logging, trucking and manufacturing jobs.

"In addition, this loss will seriously undermine the long tradition of successful multiple use forestry practiced on the White Mountain," said Niebling. "The WMNF Forest Plan, which allows for annual harvests of up to 36 MMBF, enjoys strong support from environmental and timber interests alike. Take good forest management out of the plan and this broad base of support will erode quickly."

The Forest Service is expected to make a final decision on its funding allocation within the next several months.

Favreau expressed some hope that the 9.6 MMBF figure was "only a smokescreen," and the final harvest total would increase to 15 MMBF -- but even that, he said, "was just ridiculous."

Tim Remington, Kevin Mullen, Kevin Rosenberg and Rich Diaz are back.

Other varsity lettermen include juniors Ben Fogg and Adam Newell; and sophomores Cory Koch, Wade Luxton, Tim Adams and Jason Berry.

New to the varsity squad are juniors Norman Moore and Keith Stevens; sophomores Clint Myers and Tony Buker; and freshman Jason Mullen.

Scoring shouldn't be too much of a problem for the Rebels this year, Remington said. His son Tim is taking aim at the school's all-time scoring record.

Remington is third on the scoring list behind his older brother Brant and Bruce Barth, who both had 29-goal careers. Tim Remington, with 22 goals, needs seven more to tie the record.

"Tim is not that far away from the all-time scoring record," coach Remington said. "If he has an average season he'll break the record."

Remington said he's also looking for Buker, Kangas and Koch to score some goals.

Wing and Newell will be taking up duty in the cage. The goaltenders are both in good shape, Remington said.

"A year ago we gave up only 12 goals," he said. "We scored about 20. The Mountain Valley Conference doesn't seem to be a very high-scoring league in recent years. Our talent is there."

Even with lots of talent, the MVC and Western Maine Class C are difficult leagues to win in. Telstar has plenty of veterans, but some of the squad is still pretty young.

"If there's a little uncertainty about the season," Remington said,

"it's the fact that we have a lot of sophomores and a freshman. The talent is there. They need time. If they're not ready, it will be my fault, not their's. We'd be real disappointed if we don't make it into the playoffs this year."

"Western Maine Class C is very tough," he said. "The schools are the size that have no football teams and some have summer soccer leagues. Mountain Valley (High School) looks tough to beat. The other teams in the MVC don't look real strong. But some of them always manage to find a way to win. Others look real weak. I think we're one of the two best teams in the league. We need to be consistent and play well against the tougher teams."

The Rebels start the regular season at home Sept. 7 at 3:30 or 4 p.m. against Leavitt.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the 29th annual meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 1 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The meeting will be preceded by a potluck supper beginning at 6:30 p.m. Anyone attending the supper is requested to bring a salad, hot dish, or dessert.

Following the annual meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m., Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission, will speak on the topic, "People From Away: Mount Desert Island at the Turn of the Century."

He said it would be important for Greenwood to have a town manager that would have daily contact with town residents. Maxfield said a town manager can help even a little town get more grant money. People may be more willing to serve as selectmen, he said, if a town manager handled most of the day-to-day business of running a town. The committee will meet with Bethel Town Clerk Merton Brown next on Sept. 8. Once the committee's study is complete, it will report to selectmen with its findings. Then the issue may be put to the town for a vote.

Another Andover official resigns

ANDOVER--Town treasurer Betsey White submitted her resignation to selectmen last week. The resignation is effective on Oct. 1. Deputy treasurer Alex Legault also recently announced his resignation, effective Sept. 30. The two resignations will leave the town with no one to handle financial matters, according to selectman Kathy Williamson. "I really feel bad about this," Williamson said. "I am really sorry to lose Betsey, but it is something she didn't want to put so much time into. It takes a lot of time. If things keep going the way they are going, we are going to have to have a town manager. We are looking for someone to fill her vacancy until March, when someone can take out nomination papers. If anyone is interested in the position, please notify the selectmen at the Town Office."

Museum expansion planned

WEST PARIS--The West Paris Historical Society plans to use $350 from a Maine Arts Commission grant to expand its display area. The expansion would include four small rooms. The rooms would provide about 1,500 square feet of wall space for new shelves or to display old photos and artifacts.

Rabid fox attacks Vermont man

BENNINGTON, VT.--A Bennington man was attacked and bitten recently by a fox that tested positive for rabies, according to Vermont state health officials. Frank Blake, 42, was cutting paneling with an electric saw when a fox attacked him. Blake lifted his arm to ward off the attack and the fox bit his arm. The fox had also been seen chasing cats in the area and was later shot. Blake will receive a series of shots for rabies. This is the 99th confirmed case of rabies in Vermont since the beginning of the year.

Nine-year-old joyrides then crashes

LEE, N.H.--A boy, 9, took his family's minivan on a 25-mile jaunt that ended in a crash, according to Lee, N.H. police, who found the unidentified boy alone at the crash scene last week. After his 25-mile ride, the boy drove the van off the road, hit three trees and rolled it onto its side. He was treated for bumps and bruises and released to his parents.

Man accused of stealing sunken logs

SEATTLE, WASH.--A Seattle forester has been charged with stealing 1,000 year-old logs from the bottom of Lake Washington. The president of Western Wood Lumber has been accused of using a crane to pull out about $165,000 of logs from the lake bed. The state says they own the lake bottom and the logs. Prosecutors in the case say the trees fell into the lake during landslides between 1,000 and 3,000 years ago. The wood was preserved in the deep lake bed because of the low oxygen content. The man faces 22 charges and if convicted, he could be sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Norway wants its own power company

NORWAY--Town officials in Norway set up a meeting last week to explore how the town could form its own power company. Municipalities are allowed by state law to create their own utility companies. Norway would have to negotiate with Central Maine Power to purchase existing lines, poles and equipment in the area. The town would probably have to hire a mediator to help with the deal. Gordon L. Weil, an Augusta consultant to municipally owned and operated utilities, said CMP would probably fight against Norway establishing its own power company. CMP could argue it has made a capital investment to serve Norway-area customers. But the town would probably save money going independent, Weil said, because there is a variety of power suppliers available, which creates a competitive market. One Maine community formed its own utility service, he said, and then contracted with CMP -- at a lower price than the company was charging -- to provide power.

Evans Notch project: what's next?

BETHEL--Now that consultant Gregory Herrick has finished compiling the Evans Notch Economic Base-Line report, the project's advisory committee must decide what its next step will be. Herrick has suggested that the committee consider a business visitation program and the establishment of a regional resource center for businesses. The committee plans to invite representatives from all business interests in the Bethel-area to a meeting Sept. 20 at 6:30 p.m. to discuss setting up a business visitation program. The place for the meeting will be announced later.

Tax hike

revaluation was to get everyone back on an even keel. Things weren't on an even keel before."

Selectman Harry Swan agreed. "We had the revaluation to get everyone treated on an equal basis," he said, "regardless of what your name is or anything else."

Selectmen basically told those coming in to complain that unless their assessment record contained an error, there was little they could do but pay up.

Complaints come in

All three people who came in last week to complain had substantial increases in their valuation.

Ed Mason's assessment was in error and will be corrected, selectmen said.

The other two could find little wrong with their revaluation, but that did little toward making them any happier about their tax bills.

Swan told both men that "flatlanders" would be willing to pay the assessed values or more.

Ray Harrington was one of the complainants. He brought in the bill on his mother's estate. The tax bill and the estate's evaluation were both up. The tax increased from $650 to $1,600, he said.

SAD44 blamed

Bartlett told Harrington, a SAD44 School Board member, that he could blame the district for the increase.

"I hope you're telling everyone that comes in here that and not just me, because I'm on the School Board," Harrington said. "If you're laying it to the School Board then that's probably fair. I voted against this budget, and I've voted against

'I wouldn't mind it so much, if (CPS principal David) Murphy had come right out and said, for example, that it was going to cost about $100 more per person to build that school, but he didn't. He told us it would save money.'

budgets for a long time."

Selectman Swan said he felt the town had been lied to about the cost of the new Crescent Park School project.

"I wouldn't mind it so much,"

Swan said, "if (CPS principal David) Murphy had come right out and said, for example, that it was going to cost about $100 more per person to build that school, but he didn't. He told us it would save money."

In 1992, Greenwood voted 56 to 75 against the CPS addition. Prior to that vote during a round of informational meetings in SAD44-member towns, district business manager Bruce Powell said he was unable to estimate the eventual cost to district taxpayers.

But SAD44 officials said this was a good time to take on the additional debt, because the district is still paying for the 1986 construction of the new Woodstock Elementary School, and the state would help pay a large chunk of the district's debt service.

Regardless of the state's contribution, SAD44 Superintendent of Schools Ronald Jenkins estimated at budget time that the project put the district's total budget up 5 percent.

CPS principal Murphy said last week he doubted he told anyone the project would save a great deal of money.

The third man at last week's meeting was Leaton Summer of Rowe Hill. His tax bill rose from about $700 to $1,700. His assessment was up, he said, and going over it with his son, he could find no errors.

Summer told the board that three months' worth of his Social Security checks -- his only income -- would have to go toward paying the tax.

Station

voters rejected the proposal 87-117. The train station vote (on a secret ballot) was considerably closer than the votes on the two articles that followed.

Voters first rejected overwhelmingly the idea of spending $70,000 to purchase and prepare an alternative site for the town garage. And an amendment calling for raising only $35,000 was also rejected handsily.

Then they took up discussion of the Airport Industrial Park site.

Bob Saunders and former selectman Norm Putnam argued that the decision to use the AIP site would cost the town in the long run and reduce the possibility of creating new jobs at the industrial park.

Jack Greig angrily questioned why the selectmen had sought advice from the AIP committee, if they intended all along to settle on the site there.

But selectman Dutch Dresser argued that the board had in fact given serious consideration to a dozen other sites.

His own final decision, he said, was based on three factors: that taxpayers had clearly indicated they didn't want town money spent on the town garage relocation, that most people he had talked with said "they didn't know of a better site than the Airport Industrial Park," and that locating the garage anywhere else would have a significant negative effect on neighboring properties.

After only a half hour of discussion the article was moved and easily defeated.

The Bethel Planning Board last week approved the site plan application for the new town garage. Work on the new facility is expected to begin shortly.

Dear Friends,
We recently set up our third spinner rack of 1995 calendars here at BOOKS-N-THINGS, and already some designs are selling out!
We know 1995 sounds like a light-year away, but it's not too early to be thinking about calendars to keep and give as gifts. We've got Trains, Loons, Far Side, Horses, Cats, Art, Sports, Americana, Wolves, Gardening, Native American, Inspirational, Maine, New England calendars and more. We've even got Pigs and Elvis (no relationship is implied).
The great thing about calendars as gifts is that more than one person can enjoy them, making calendars an economical present. And, of course, you'll want one of your own.
Don't wait until December, or your favorite calendars may be gone!

Stressing school bus safety

Riding to school on the traditional yellow bus is an exciting activity for a new student, but parents should stress safety from the beginning, according to AAA Maine.

Although more than 22 million pupils nationally ride school buses each day, being transported to school generally poses few dangers. However, AAA Maine warns it is not completely without risk. During the 1991-1992 school year (the latest national statistics available), an estimated 110 persons, including 35 pupils, were killed in school bus accidents. Another 8,300 students were injured.

Knowing where to stand and being alert to traffic while waiting for the bus, behaving while riding it and exiting safely can make an important difference in a student's life.

"As you'd expect, students are injured most often when the school bus approaches or leaves a loading area," said AAA spokesman Matt McKenzie. Incidents usually occur when children near the bus move out of the driver's line of sight. This might happen when they bend down to pick up a dropped article, or walk behind the bus or where they can't see the driver."

To ensure that the ride to and from school is as safe as possible, McKenzie offers these safety tips for parents of first-time school bus riders:

- Make sure the student leaves home early enough to arrive at the bus stop on time.
- See that your child waits for the bus in a safe place well off the roadway. Remind him or her that horseplay can cause someone to come into the path of another vehicle.
- Tell youngsters to remain seated while the bus is in motion.
- Stress the importance of keeping aisles clear at all times. Book bags or lunch boxes should never be left where someone can trip over them.
- Make sure your child knows the dangers of throwing things inside the bus or out the window. An object might hit the school bus driver or another motorist who might lose control and cause a collision.
- Maintain a four- to six-second following distance when behind a bus.
- Getting new students off to a safe start on their way to school is among the most valuable information they will learn.

NEW MIDDLE SCHOOL PRINCIPAL AND FAMILY--

Middle school support group meets Sept. 3

The Telstar Middle School parent/teacher/community support group will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library.

The group hopes to involve parents more fully with their students' education and to work with new middle school principal Richard Blackman to create a network of people willing to volunteer at the middle school, according to group member Arla Patch of Woodstock.

The school's volunteer program would include a catalog of resources in the area, such as programs and facilities open to the public or people willing to give talks on various subjects, Patch said. When Blackman was Mountain Valley High School principal, Patch said, he ran a similar program which was successful.

"We're hoping to involve parents, staff and community members more fully in their children's education," she said.

The group will also assist middle school staff with a monthly newsletter, which will include a calendar of events and other items. Monthly meetings are planned. A community reception for Blackman and his wife Linda, who was recently hired as Telstar librarian, will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 7 from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Anyone who wants more information about the new middle parent/teacher group can call the school at 824-3596.

CPS hydrant may be moved

By WENDY HANSCOM

The new Crescent Park School has met with the Bethel Fire Department's approval, but fire officials are asking that a hydrant be moved.

During a recent inspection, firefighters got a chance to familiarize themselves with the building and look for any safety concerns.

Fire Chief Jim Young suggested that an existing fire hydrant next to the fence between CPS and Bethel Park Apartments should be moved closer to the school building.

Firefighters were concerned that it would be difficult to get a truck to the hydrant in the winter. It might be best to move the hydrant while the school was finishing up its construction phase, they suggested.

SAD44 business manager Bruce Powell said he has contacted the Bethel Water District and asked the agency to take a look at the hydrant and determine if it needs to be moved.

I was sorry to have had other commitments and missed the Open House on Aug. 17 at the Bethel Citizen. I heard it was very enjoyable and it would be nice to meet the other town correspondents. Congratulations and best wishes to you, Bethel Citizen, on your nice, new, bright interior workplace.

One evening last week 14 members of Albert and Eleanor Nelson's family got together at a restaurant in Harrison, which was very enjoyable.

Vicki and Steve Pike are back from Alaska where they visited his brother Jack. They had a great time fishing. Vicki got the first one, weighing 15 pounds, and I believe the one that Steve caught weighed in at 80 pounds. It must be quite an experience to land such big fish.

Joan Grover is at home after spending a few days on the coast with friends.

Congratulations go out to Melissa Fox and Steven Evans on their recent wedding, which took place at the First Congregational Church of Christ in North Conway with a reception at the Eagle Mountain House in Jackson, N.H. The best man was Steven Gagne and maid of honor was Christine York; bridesmaids were Tonya Fox and Jamie Hamlin; flower girl was Laurie Brydon; ring bearer was Craig Foss; ushers were Dan Evans, brother of the bridegroom, and Travis Fox, brother of the bride; organist was Alfreda Brown; soloist was Mary Johnson; and the Rev. The Fox Bros. have been working at Grover's Mill this past week, painting, etc.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Louise Tetley and yours truly were at the Rumford Community House Health Center Saturday, Aug. 20, visiting with Amy and Roger Hanscom, and we found them in a good mood.

Six members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, last week: Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Doris Parent, Bea Lowell, Olive Anderson and Sylvia Wight. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on both the triples and singles. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on both the triples and the singles. Karlene had three spares and one strike. Gil had one spare. Sylvia had one spare, Bea had one spare, Doris had one spare and one strike and Olive had one spare.

Sue Cross treated her mother-in-law Jan Cross to a nice buffet lunch at the Balsamis Grand Resort Hotel last week, and Karlene Bachelder, Sylvia Wight and Gil Seeley were in the party enjoying the buffet and all the beautiful flowers and gift shops, etc....See you next year!

Ladies: did you forget that Aug. 26 was the Women's Equality Day? We are all equal; only the "Mask" is different! "We are foolish, and without excuse, foolish in speaking of superiority of one sex to the other, as if they could be compared in similar things! Each has what the other has not; each completes the other; they are nothing alike; and the happiness and perfection of both depend on each asking and receiving from the other what the other only can give." Amen

So. Woodstock

A variety and food sale will be held Saturday, Sept. 3, at the South Woodstock Union Church, Andrews Corner, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate items or make bakery items to sell should contact Andrea Wing at 674-2102 or leave them at the church Saturday morning, Sept. 3.

Sarah Hart will be in a model at Fashion Bug this Saturday, and out getting donations for Make-A-Wish Foundation for little boy who has a bad heart. It's almost five years old and wants to go to Disney World. As Sarah gets the donations, I visited some friends and relatives along way. We called on Claribel Polak, Tommy Polak, Sherry Polak, and Wayne Lawrence, Bev. Stevens, Terry Merrill and family. Also, Myerson, Maude Alice Hall and Emma Wing. The visits were much enjoyed and sometimes stayed longer than I intended. Megan and Pauli Meek are going to model at the Fashion Bug this week.

I missed one important birthday in August. It was President Clinton.

Everyone is out school shopping this week. The stores are crowded with parents and students trying to find the best buys. I think all the children are anxious to go back even if they say they are not. The buses will be running next week; please be careful.

Perry Monk, road commissioner of Woodstock, has been doing some ditching on our road, Curtis Hill.

Barbara Cash is still in the hospital and I hear she had to have another operation while there. I wish her the best and hope she feels better soon.

Richard Wing mowed the lawn on the Olive Davis place one night this week. It is quite a large area and he does a very neat job.

Tommy Poland and I have been setting up for the sale as we had time the last couple of weeks. It's quite a job so have tried to do a little at a time.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that he has given an old piece of silverplate to the society. He also donated a decorative tin recently. The society examines all aspects of civilization. The museum will close the second Saturday in September. Thanks to all who watched it and all who visited.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

The West Paris Historical Society is pleased to announce it has received a grant in the amount of $350, from funds generated by the Maine Arts Commission which were awarded by the Oxford Hills Council for the Arts (OXCART) as a result of an application filed by the society to OXCART at their office in South Paris.

The award came at a very opportune time, because the members of the society are currently working on a project in the museum which will enhance the ability to display artifacts, memorabilia, and other articles in the museum, located in the former I.O.O.F. building on Main Street, West Paris.

This project consists of construction of four small rooms (cubicles), which will enable the society to categorize and display items in each respective room. These rooms also will provide 1500 square feet of additional wall space, which will be used to display old pictures, photos, paintings, etc.

The grant money only will be used to purchase shelving materials, enabling the society to show smaller artifacts, as well as books, photo albums, etc., on some of the newly constructed walls.

Plans are also being made to establish a reading room adjacent to the main museum, and it is hoped that part of this grant money can be used to purchase shelving materials for this project.

Members are donating their time and labor for these projects, so the entire funds are used only to purchase materials. Although no target date has been set for completion of these projects, the members wish to complete them as soon as possible in order to provide a more interesting and orderly display of the numerous old artifacts and memorabilia in the museum.

Anyone willing to donate their time to assist in these projects can contact any of the officers of the society. New members are always welcome, and dues are $5 per year.

The society invites and encourages anyone to visit the museum, although at this time viewing is limited due to the construction. When the project is completed an announcement will be made so the public can come to see the new improvements.

Officers are: Harlan Abbott, president (674-2385); Vernon Inman, vice president (674-2295); Miriam Inman, secretary (674-2295); Ida Gurney, treasurer (674-3885); and Joyce Lamb, curator (674-2002).

Corriveau-Russell family at a reunion held at her home on the North Road. A menu consisting of surf and turf and all the fixings was enjoyed by the 100 or so guests. An enjoyable time for all these families coming together as a body. This was the third annual meeting of its kind and is expected to be an annual event.

On Saturday, Aug. 20, Fabian Corriveau was tendered a going away party, held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Corriveau. Many friends and family members attended. Fabian left on Tuesday, the 23rd, for Chicago, Ill., where he will take his basic training with the Navy. He has enlisted for a three-year tour of duty. Bon Voyage and Good Luck Wishes go out to him from the community. He will be missed by all of us. On Monday, the 22nd, Fabian became an Eagle Scout at a ceremony held in his honor.

Also on Monday, the 22nd, Beverly Corriveau and Fabian took some of the younger members of the immediate family to Fun Town, U.S.A. for an end-of-the-summer outing. While standing in line they ran into Merton Brown and his family.

On the 20th and 21st my husband and I, and Mildred McLain and daughter Linsley and husband Hugh held a combined yard sale here in town. We took our lunches and sat under the trees, and we had an enjoyable time meeting people from all parts of the country.

Mildred McLain was elated to receive birthday greetings from the White House -- signed by President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton. Mildred was 85 years young on the 27th and spent an enjoyable day hearing from friends, family and neighbors.

Those of you who read my column from the Bryant Pond area, and who know my brother, the late Raymond K. Bryant, might be interested to learn that his daughter Gail and her husband Jeffery from Corinna are receiving congratulations on the birth of a 5 lb., 15 oz. baby girl, born on Aug. 22 at 9 a.m. She is a petite redhead, they tell me, and bears a strong resemblance to her great-grandmother, the late Elsie (Mrs. Lester) Bryant. She has been named Kerri-Lee and joins a sister, Erin, who is 6 years old. What joyful news this was to me! And time marches on.

And how was your week?

Monday evening, we attended Gentleman's Night at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. I was in charge of getting the officers and program for the evening, and, if I do say so, I think I did a pretty good job of it. The attendance was rather small, but those that did come seemed to enjoy themselves.

It rained most of the day on Thursday, and we chose this time to go to Auburn to visit sister Viva at the Odd Fellows Home. We found her asleep as usual, but she soon awoke. She was quite alert and tried to talk to us quite a lot, but we can't understand much that she tries to say. Visits are not very satisfying when you can't communicate with the patient.

Thursday evening, we attended Musical Night at West Paris Grange. The lecturer, Bertha Benoit, had worked very hard to make this a success, and it surely was. There were a lot of visitors there, some Grangers and some not Grangers. The program was long, but excellent, and was enjoyed very much.

Peggy attended the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening.

Sunday evening, we visited Barbara and Richard Felt at their home in Bryant Pond.

The Sunday School children from the Mission Congregational Church of West Paris enjoyed a picnic at the Lovejoy camp on North Pond.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Sept. 3 with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. It's good music. Come enjoy it.

Oxford Pomona Grange 2 will be meeting at Norway Grange for the installation of officers on Sept. 6. There will be a 6:30 potluck supper preceding the 7:30 p.m. meeting. Officers, please make every effort to be present to be installed by the installing team. Thank you.

Gilbert Mfg. Corp. recently lost three of its long-time production employees to retirement. Charles "Buster" Morse retired on June 30, after 40 years of employment; Barbara Wakefield (41 years) and Elsie Seames (36 years) retired on July 29. All were given parties by fellow employees, with cards, gifts and lots of good wishes for much deserved happiness and outside enjoyment with their families and friends. A total of 117 were given these three employees is quite an accomplishment.

Our church homecoming is over, and in spite of the near nervous breakdown Dot Chopping always has when we have celebrations, it went fine. Dot is probably the most efficient, best organized, most helpful person to head up any celebration, but she always says she will help but don't expect her to head it up--so someone else heads it up and then fades into the background and leaves everything to Dot. And everything goes as smooth as clockwork. This year, she had Leslie Aron to help with the food so that took a big load off Dot's shoulders. It is not easy to know how much food to prepare. We had about 100 show up Saturday and about 75 on Sunday. On Saturday, we had five pastors present: Rev. Simpson from Farmington, Sectional Presbyter; the Rev. Don Cougle from Lewiston; our pastor; Rev. Rob Rainville; Rev. John Ludlam of Enosburg, Vt.; and our special guest, the Rev. Dr. Lyle Van Horn of Wilmore, Ky, our former pastor.

Among those present at one or more of the services were Anne Massey and two sons from Waterville; Stan and Joyce Stinchfield from Farmington; Mary Theriault and daughters Jami and Jennifer; Linda and Charlie Hodgkins of lower New Hampshire; Alla Ludlam and Julie, Jack and Joel of Enosburg, Vt.; and the Van Horn family, Lyle, Marilyn, Mark, Andy and Daniel.

One of our former families now living in Michigan, Pat and Jennie Walter, had a pretty good reason for not coming. On July 28, Jennie gave birth to Alec Clayton and Jared Everett, total weight 11 lbs, 9 ozs. They will have their hands full. Their two other sons are Derek, who was 3 in January, and Evan, who was two in April.

Locke Mills has been very well represented at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway of late: Jimmy Blanchard, Jim Tuttle, Helen Chase, Gladys Jordan, and Lelia MacAlister either have been or are patients there. I understand that Lelia has pneumonia, Gladys Jordan had a stroke and Helen Chase broke her hip. I am not sure just what the men were in for, but I hope they, along with the women, will soon be well again.

Our postmaster, Caroline Merrill and daughter Darlene Merrill have returned from a two-week visit with relatives in Norway, Europe. It was Mrs. Merrill's second visit. She went with her father in 1972.

Western Maine Family Birthplace

OB nurse

Although Western Maine Family Birthplace is one of the smallest units at Stephen's Memorial Hospital, with about 280 deliveries each year, you might say that it is one of the most productive!

With three delivery rooms, and a regular staff of just ten nurses, we are able to provide individualized care, often with one nurse per patient. We recognize the value of supportive family members during childbirth, so family members may accompany the pregnant woman to office and hospital visits to discuss any related matters. Visits usually include listening to the unborn baby's heartbeat, which is always reassuring, as well as exciting!

Care of the pregnant woman and her family starts long before labor. She should make an appointment with a physician as soon as she suspects that she is pregnant, and ideally she should be seen even earlier than that for preconception care, to ensure that she is in the best possible condition prior to starting a pregnancy. Once she has started antepartum care, regular visits are scheduled until delivery.

During the last few weeks of pregnancy, women are strongly encouraged to attend Childbirth Preparation classes with their partners, or other person that they have chosen to be their coach. The classes include valuable information about pregnancy, labor and delivery, and offer practical ideas for nutrition, remedies for the discomforts of late pregnancy, how to recognize labor, when to come to the hospital and (what most people picture when they think about

HEALTHY LIVING

Western Maine Family Birthplace

by Jane Mills, RNC, Bryant Pond
OB nurse at Stephens Memorial Hospital since 1987

Although Western Maine Family Birthplace is one of the smallest units at Stephen's Memorial Hospi- tal, with about 280 deliveries each year, you might say that it is one of the most productive!

With three delivery rooms, and a regular staff of just ten nurses, we are able to provide individualized care, often with one nurse per patient. We recognize the value of supportive family members during childbirth, so family members may accompany the pregnant woman to office and hospital visits to discuss any related matters. Visits usually include listening to the unborn baby's heartbeat, which is always reassuring, as well as exciting!

Care of the pregnant woman and her family starts long before labor. She should make an appointment with a physician as soon as she suspects that she is pregnant, and ideally she should be seen even earlier than that for preconception care, to ensure that she is in the best possible condition prior to starting a pregnancy. Once she has started antepartum care, regular visits are scheduled until delivery.

During the last few weeks of pregnancy, women are strongly encouraged to attend Childbirth Preparation classes with their part- ners, or other person that they have chosen to be their coach. The classes include valuable informa- tion about pregnancy, labor and delivery, and offer practical ideas for nutrition, remedies for the dis- comforts of late pregnancy, how to recognize labor, when to come to the hospital and (what most people picture when they think about "Lamaze classes") relaxation and breathing to use during labor. The emphasis is on the couple working as a team, discovering and using their strengths and abilities to work together through labor and delivery of their child. The skills learned can be used for a lifetime.

Childbirth classes are taught by labor and delivery nurses from The Birthplace, and they include a tour of the unit. We believe that the more knowledge you can gain before you come to the hospital to give birth, the more relaxed you will be, and the better you will be able to con- centrate on the job at hand.

As well as classes for first-time par- ents, we also have a shorter "refresher" class for those who have experienced labor before, and there will soon be a sibling class to help prepare children to welcome a new baby into the family.

For women in labor, we offer physical and emotional support, reinforcing what was learned in classes. Because labor nurses are also Childbirth Instructors, you can be comfortable knowing that they are familiar with the same techniques as you are. You will be encouraged to change positions frequently in labor, use the shower, perhaps use our over- sized bath tub, walk, sit in the recliner or the rocking chair. By moving around in labor, you can retain a sense of being in control, and also make use of gravity to help the process of childbirth.

Why not call and arrange to visit The Birthplace? You could come and meet our nurses. We have many years of experience caring for obstetric patients, their families and new babies, and some of us have taken and passed further exams so that we can be certified in our chosen specialty. We do not have a Nurse Manager at The Birthplace - the running of the unit is shared by all the nurses, which we feel makes us more conscien- tious and committed to the main- tenance of high standards of care in our department.

We could tell you about our Labor, Delivery, Recovery & Postpartum (LDRP) rooms, where women and their families spend their entire hospital stay, including delivery and about our comprehensive patient teaching program to ensure that families have the information they need to survive at home with their new baby. ## Benefits of Aerobic Exercise

by Lee Ferreira
Instructor of Aerobics at The Bethel Area Health Center

Today we live in a very stressful world. Regardless of your state in life, there are tensions and difficulties.

For the homemaker the responsi- bilities are endless; cooking, cleaning, and childcare, just to name a few. Let's face it, she wears several hats, figuratively speaking, to fill all her family's needs.

Working women have even more stress due to the fact that in addi- tion to their domestic concerns, they have to function in our highly competitive business environment.

Men are also under tremendous pressure regarding on the job performance. They must be innovative, productive and aggressive to achieve success in their chosen field.

Is it any wonder then that today, more than ever, people incur so many health problems; among them anxiety, depression, high blood pressure, heart disease, ulcers - - the list is endless!

Under these circumstances, every- one must find a program that will relieve stress and contribute to their physical and mental well-being.

Aerobic exercise and proper nutri- tion are the keys to living a longer and healthier life.

The formula for proper weight loss is portion control and fat reduction incorporated with an Aerobic (car- dio-vascular) program.

The exercise regimen should be at least five to seven times a week for weight loss and a minimum of three to four times a week for maintenance.

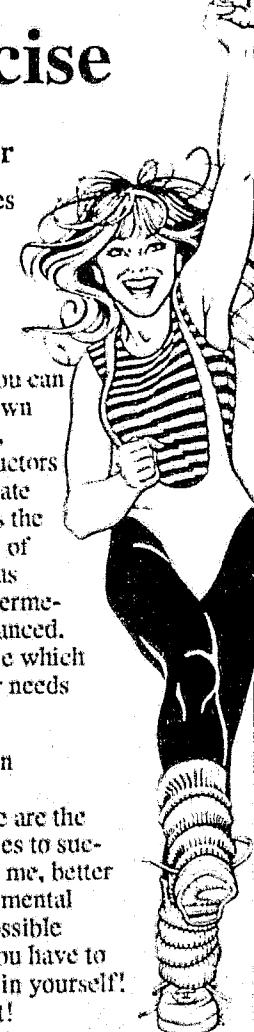

One must remember that after 48 hours (two days) of not exercising, you lose the aerobic benefits of fat burning; that is why it is imperative for one to work out three to four times a week.

The importance of Cardio-vascular conditioning cannot be over- emphasized; as it burns fat (revs up your metabolism) tones the body and contributes to your physical endurance and mental alertness.

Remember, you can do it at your own pace. Usually, Aerobic Instructors will demonstrate and/or discuss the various levels of activity such as beginners, interme- diate and advanced. You determine which level fits your needs and ability.

Determination attitude and perseverance are the stepping stones to suc- cess. Believe me, better physical and mental health is a possible dream - all you have to do is believe in yourself! You can do it!

Hearing Question & Answer

brought to you by: Beltone Hearing Aids Center

Q. My doctor recommended that I get my hearing tested. What is involved? Does it take a long time? Is it painful?

A. Taking a hearing test is nearly as simple as getting your blood pressure checked. It takes about 30 minutes and, no, it isn't painful at all.

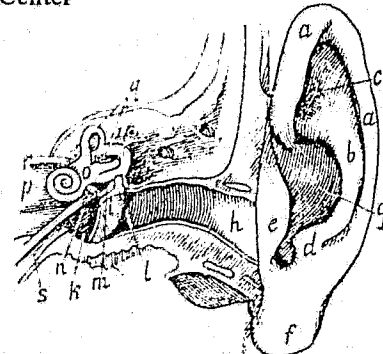

Here's a quick summary of what's involved in a hearing test. First, the person conducting the test will have you put on a set of earphones con- nected to an audiometer, a device for measuring hearing. The tester will then ask you to signal when you hear a sound. A series of tones may be used, progressing from loud sounds to softer ones, until nothing can be heard.

Next, you'll be given a different type of receiver, a tiny vibrator held against the bone right behind your ear. Sound waves travel through this bone to the inner ear. You should hear sounds if the inner ear and auditory nerve are operating normally.

You may also listen to a tape recording of someone reading a list of words. You will be asked to repeat the words. This will show the level of loudness at which you can comfortably hear and understand speech.

At the end of the test, based on your responses, the tester will have an audiogram, or record, of your hearing quality. This will show the extent of your hearing problem, if any. If there is a hear- ing loss, the audiogram will help determine if it can be corrected through the use of a hearing aid.

Many doctors recommend a hearing test at least once a year for people of all ages.

The ABC's of Preventing Lice & Pinworm Infestations

brought to you by:
Preb's Market Place Pharmacy

As the summer months draw to a close and children begin returning to school after weeks of fun and games at camps, recreational gatherings, and other organized activities, parents may be faced with what is becoming an increas- ingly common health problem: lice and pinworm infestation.

With the exception of the common cold, head lice and pinworms probably affect more children in the U.S. each year than all other communicable diseases combined.

Infestation can occur with anyone, no matter how "clean" they may appear to be.

• Lice and pinworm infestation is most common from August through November.

• Both lice and pinworms are par- asites: a human is necessary for either to thrive.

• There must be some form of direct contact to contract head lice or pinworms.

• Learn to recognize the early symptoms of infestation: Head lice will be accompanied by itching of the scalp, ears, or neck. Pinworms generally create discomfort and itching in the anal area.

• To reduce the potential for infestation of head lice and pinworms:

A. Discourage sharing of hair brushes, combs, and all forms of headgear, including headphones. These represent some of the easi- est ways for lice to be transmitted.

B. Each family member must wash their hands thoroughly following visits to the toilet and before eating or preparing foods.

C. Children should sleep in sep- arate beds, and should minimize sharing of personal belongings.

• Neither head lice or pinworms is life-threatening, and both are easily treated once detected.

• If you find that your child has either head lice or pinworms, consult your pharmacist for recommended treatment.
